

LETTER FROM LOUDOUN.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

LEESBURG, VA., October 20, 1865.—I would have written to you sooner about the election, but the full returns did not come in till Monday morning, and you then had the Mirror Extra giving the substantial result.

Mr. Conrad was generally regarded here as eminently wise, conservative and reliable, and as such was voted for by our people, who have, in good faith, accepted the new order of things, and mean to do the best they can, under the circumstances. He is a lawyer of very high reputation.

Messrs. Gray and Bentley will be practical business men, acting for the peace and quiet of the country.

The only news is of the great yield of corn, which the farmers thus early are beginning to gather; the long continued dry weather having fully matured it. The wheat came up badly, (or may be only slowly,) but the recent rain of two days, preceded by a smart shower, a few days ago, will bring it up well.

A good deal of land is in market, as large landholders have died during the past four years, and the estates will be sold.

Money is also much wanted, even by persons who used to be independent, to repair their "waste places."

I wonder that no insurance agent has come here—I think a good company could get a good many policies on safe houses, &c. You must know I am hard run for news, when I say that a tournament at Red Hill near Noland's Ferry took place to-day, after having been postponed two days, on account of the rain.
